

Star Lane Class 1- Reunions & Teacher Celebrations.

Background of Star Lane and Class 1

On the 8th January 1964 I walked into Star lane school for the first time, and joined a class in the Infants which had a number of pupils who were to remain in my class through the junior school, where we were joined by new members forming a class which stayed together for several years. Whilst in the infants we were lucky enough to be taught by Ann Hull (Fig 1), and in the junior school after a spell with Mr Davy we were lucky again when we were given Derek Hull as our teacher for our final 2 years. (Fig 2)

Although we didn't realise it at the time Derek and Ann were to have quite an effect on our class and were a guiding influence not only then, but for many of the pupils for a number of years afterwards. Our class is had up to 44 members, a large class by today's standards (Fig 3), but somehow our teachers always had time for us as individuals, and made a lot of effort to encourage us in the things we were interested in, and also to take us out on social occasions, many times as part of their own social life. (Fig 4), some of the girls joined in a church group Derek ran, and for some religion was brought into their lives. We enjoyed trips to the Zoo (Fig 5), and stays at Debden House in Essex (Fig 6), as well the chance to go to the theatre. For many of us these were rare treats, as the area we came from was reasonably poor, and I among many others may not have had these things were it not for this input. I still remember the stays at Debden, and have a pocket knife given to me by Derek for keeping our room tidy. Imagine giving that to a child nowadays!

The following are some photos of our class, and some of the activities we took part in. Derek has fond memories of us as being great rounder's players, so for his benefit I have included a couple of these (fig's 6 & 7).

The following are just a few random photos chosen from those I have, and show the interest Derek had in our class, just in the fact he kept so much for so long, and of course a couple like those of Leslie and Janet are a good example of his interest in photography.

There is of course another special member of the class, and I am amazed the photograph exists; in fact even more amazed I was allowed to take the fellow in it to school and allow him to pose in a cup our class won. I am of course talking about my white mouse (Fig 13).

Previously I mentioned the fact that some of us had Mr Davy as our teacher for a while. It would seem he was a bit of a strange character (putting it mildly), and certainly from reports he wrote on some of our class that I have seen, he didn't think as much of us as Derek and Ann did. To illustrate this I include a report written on me, which as well as being barbed, illustrates that he most certainly didn't have any understanding of our home life and was inclined to make the most outrageous comments! Thank goodness we had Derek, (Fig 14).

A very naughty boy, spiteful and deceitful.

No one cares about or for William a sad boy who likes other people
 I don't think an interest in him I want out of my way to tell you how interesting things I get like South Sea
 he has some when he is ~~at school~~ behaviour was good but he was still naughty

My work is of a very high standard. He is quick when I tell him what to do
 He has no real interest in his work
 I don't have time long enough to tell him a story or something for him
 He would be pleased if I don't want to be punished.

To finish this section I include a letter written to by one of class's mother, which I think says it for all of us, (Figs 16 & 17).

Dear Miss Hood,

I would like to say how very pleased we were about Olive passing the eleven plus examination. I thank you very much for all the help and kindness you have given Olive since he has been in the Juniors. I am sure this has helped many times, and in many ways, both his father and I appreciated this very much, far more than I can express in this letter. I should also like you to thank Mr Hull on my behalf for all the help and encouragement he has given me. I know we haven't always been in agreement over certain things, but I mean it sincerely when I say thank you to him.

Yours sincerely
Mrs. E. Spanton

Reunions

After we left Star Lane many of us kept in touch with Derek and Ann. I know some of the girls joined in with activities within his church group. Others of us just turned up occasionally, as did a group of us at our first proper reunion at their house in Chingford when we were about 18. Over the years we have had other meetings, several of which have taken place in the last decade. Photos of two of these are shown in Figs 18 & 19.

This again is I think indicative of how fond Derek and Ann are of our class, and of course we are of them.

I must say that for my part I am extremely glad to have had Derek and Ann as my teachers. Especially in the fact that I remember how much encouragement and help I received in the class, like the time Derek Prior and I built a small radio and Derek brought in an amplifier to enable it to be heard. I am glad to have been a part of this class.

Party Time

This year, 2010 has been a special year for Derek and Ann and members of our class were lucky, along with many of their other friends, to receive an invitation to share in the celebration of both their 50th wedding anniversary and Derek's 80th birthday, (Fig 20).

Fig 20 Invitation

Fig 21 Derek and Ann's Marriage

For the past years 4 years or so Derek and Ann have lived in the Dordogne region of France, in a pretty house, (Fig 22) in St Antoine Cumond, a small village approached via a beautiful avenue of trees from the neighbouring town of Aubeterre, (Fig 23).

Fig 21 Derek and Ann's House

Quite a move for people of their age, and especially as Derek will not learn French. But they have made many friends locally, both English and French, so what with a large party of visitors who flew out from England their celebrations were a resounding success! Among these were family, friends and another pupil from Star Lane, Lynda Dowling, who wasn't in our class, but who seems to also think as much of Derek and Ann as everyone else.

The following Photos are a small selection of those taken at this event, which serve to give a good idea of the fun had by all.

Fig 25 Derek and His Rum Baba!

I should say that it now a well known fact that Derek has a soft spot for a Rum Baba. The caterers knowing this brought, especially for him, his own Rum Baba, never mind the fact there was no end of cake!

There is a small video of the party, at present this is on You tube and can be viewed by clicking the following link.

No party is ever complete without the après party fun. Derek and Ann were great hosts, and those of us who stayed over were made to feel extremely welcome. We enjoyed their home, their food, and their swimming pool, AND we even got invited back! All I can say is that it's a shame some people couldn't make it, they missed out on a very special event.

Which of course was extremely pleasant as the weather was very warm.

And many thanks; I look forward to the next Party
